

City Guides x Emilie Meinadier Consulting

Paris Fashion Week Bulletin

Summer 2019

Eat & Drink

L'Abyse

SUSHI

Inside Yannick Alleno's gastronomic sanctuary the Pavillon Ledoyen this modern sushi counter created in partnership with the Japanese sushi master Yasunari Okazaki. Via three set menus, starting with a 98 Euro lunch menu, it takes you on a voyage through Japan, with a few added taste twists from the French chef.

8 avenue Dutuit, 75008 | 01 53 05 10 00 | www.yannick-alleno.com

Brasserie Bocusse

CLASSIC FRENCH

Facing the Comédie Française, the newly renovated Hôtel du Louvre unveils the first Parisian outpost for the empire founded by the "Pope of French cuisine," Monsieur Paul Bocuse, famous for advocating cooking rooted in place and produce, like his famous Bresse chicken fricassee with cream and morel mushrooms.

Hôtel du Louvre, 1 place André Malraux, 75001 | 01 44 58 37 21 | parishoteldulouvre.hyatt.com

Coco

AFTERNOON TEA / BREAKFAST / MODERN EURO

Inside the Opera Garnier's monumental right wing, an outrageously glamorous Baz Luhrmannesque take on the Paris of the Roaring Twenties boasts a memorable terrace and an atmosphere steeped in copper, velvet, mahogany and untamed plants. The all-day menu is long but finely controlled: how about sea bream tartare, lobster spaghetti, or veal chop for two?

Palais Garnier, 1 place Jacques Rouché, 75009 | 01 42 68 86 80 | coco-paris.com

Marsan

MODERN FRENCH

After an almost year long facelift, Hélène Darroze's eponymous Left Bank table has metamorphosed into Marsan, in a nod to her native village Mont-de-Marsan. Within an elegant, pared down but welcoming dining room, enjoy a tasting menu as ambitious and refined as its chef.

4 rue d'Assas, 75006 | 01 42 22 00 11 | www.helenedarroze.com

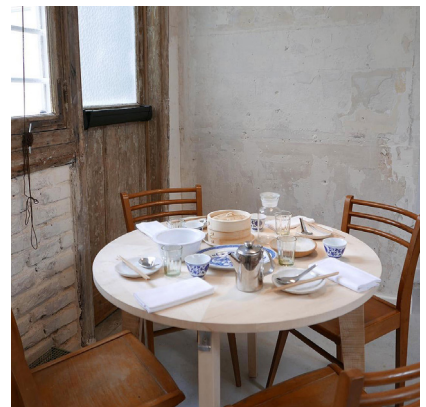

La Gare

FUSION

The colourful new decor by Laura Gonzalez for this relaunched institution way out in the Parisian Far West is as flamboyant as chef Peruvian Gastón Acurio's far-reaching fusion menu: Galician style octopus, steamed chicken shiitake ravioli, ceviche, grilled rib-eye...

19 chaussée de la Muette, 75016 | 01 42 15 15 31 | www.lagare-paris.com

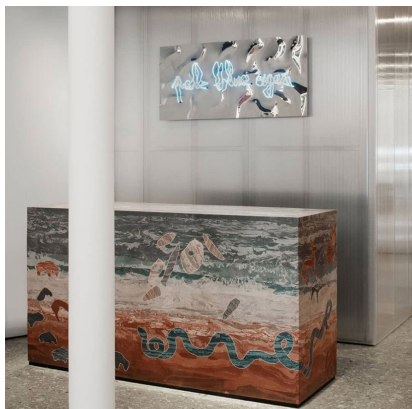

Le Cheval d'Or

FUSION

Behind the original façade of a former Chinese greasy spoon, the Japanese chef Taku Sekine (Dersou) takes us for a gourmet jaunt through Asia. This new spot combines a pared-back décor from local design studio Ciguë and a gratifying menu featuring (among other delights) a parade of sweet & savoury steamed buns.

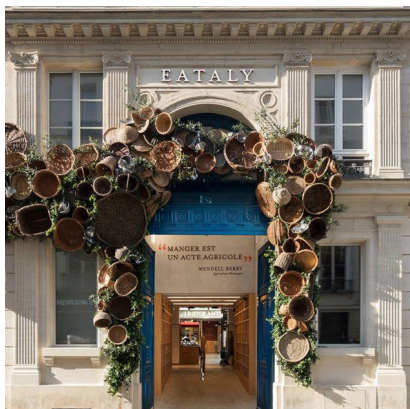

21 rue de la Villette, 75020 | 09 54 12 21 77 | www.instagram.com/chevaldorparis/

Shopping

BDC - Boys Don't Cry

Next door to her Paris flagship, Sophie Mechaly (Paul & Joe) teams up with Belgian fashion designer Félix Boehm to create this arty new temple to men's fashion. Behind a brushed steel facade, the venue distills a bold selection of ultra-sharp international brands (Adaptation, Bode, Off-White, etc.) mixed up with some contemporary art.
62 rue des Saints-Pères, 75007 | bdc-paris.com

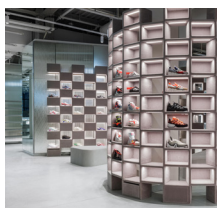

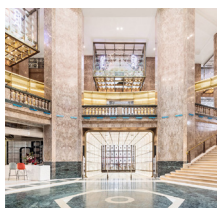

Eataly

Galleries Lafayette imports the international Eataly phenomenon to the heart of the Marais. This va-va-voom showcase for Italian produce brings together grocery stores, delis, markets and restaurants over three gourmet floors. Everything is fresh, delicious and sourced directly from the producers.
37 rue Sainte-Croix de la Bretonnerie, 75004 | www.facebook.com/EatalyParisMarais/

Saint Laurent Rive Droite

Eighteen months after Colette closed shop, 213 Rue Saint-Honoré is reborn as YSL's new Right Bank flagship. Supervised by Anthony Vaccarello, the 3-floor boutique offers in addition to the brand's ready-to-wear collections and accessories, a lifestyle selection - objects, books, vinyls, works - plus an ambitious cultural program.
213 rue Saint Honoré, 75001 | www.ysl.com

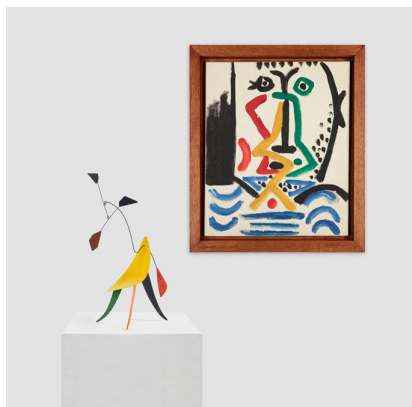

Galeries Lafayette Champs-Élysées

New to the Champs-Élysées: cutting-edge fashion! Throughout three floors of an Art Deco building transformed by star architect Bjarke Ingels, the Parisian department store delivers an exceptional edit of on-trend pieces, luxury brands and niche labels. You'll find an equally tight edit of beauty brands on the ground floor, and Dover Street Market takes care of the jewellery space. Another innovation, an army of personal stylists to help you define your perfect look.

60 avenue des Champs-Élysées, 75008 | www.galerieslafayettechampselysees.com

What's On

Calder - Picasso

MUSÉE PICASSO

Two of the most seminal figures of 20th-century art innovated entirely new ways to perceive grand themes. While the resonances between them are filled with endless possibilities, a key connection can be found specifically in their exploration of the void.

Until 25 August | 5 rue de Thorigny, 75003 | www.museepicassoparis.fr

Dora Maar

CENTRE POMPIDOU

The biggest retrospective ever devoted to Dora Maar. Via more than 500 works and documents, it explores the trajectory of an accomplished intellectual and artist and the many facets of her artistic career, beyond her relationship with Pablo Picasso.

Until 29 July | Place Georges-Pompidou, 75004 | www.centrepompidou.fr

Helena Rubinstein

MUSÉE D'ART ET D'HISTOIRE DU JUDAÏSME

An exhibition dedicated to the woman that Cocteau nicknamed the "Empress of beauty": more than 300 objects (garments, photos, paintings, sculptures...) retrace the destiny that saw this woman from a modest Jewish family in Krakow found an international cosmetics empire.

Until 25 August | Hôtel de Saint-Aignan, 71 rue du Temple, 75003 | www.mahj.org