

City Guides x Emilie Meinadier Consulting

Paris Fashion Week Bulletin

Winter 2018-19

Eat & Drink

Raw Saint Germain

BRUNCH / MODERN EURO

At their new Left Bank address, chef William Pradeleix and his wife Marie keep the focus on excellent produce simply prepared, but exploring sophisticated flavour associations often inspired by Asia: how about beef tartare, soy vinaigrette, truffle cream and green mango? And across the road from the original Marais address you'll now find Raw To Go, selling complete meals as well as healthy snacks and fresh juices to take away.

44 rue de Fleurus, 75006 | 01 73 73 20 49 | Noon-2.30pm, 6-10.30pm; Sun 11.30-3pm | @rawstgermain

Goguette

MODERN EURO / SMALL PLATES / WINE BAR / TERRACE

From an open kitchen, chef Gianmarco Gorni (ex-David Toutain) prepares a short daily menu – perhaps duck, onions and broccolini, or matcha tiramisu, sage crumble and beetroot powder – paired with natural wines at this relaxed local spot, a living manifesto for “liberated cooking and wine”. Enjoy a set menu at lunch (18€/ 23€), then at night the wine bar vibe comes to the fore, with the menu privileging small plates for sharing.

108 Rue Amelot, 11th | 09 54 74 16 36 | Noon-2pm, Tue-Fri; 7-10.30pm, Mon-Sat. Closed Sun | @goguette_paris

Gaya

MODERN EURO / SEAFOOD / SMALL PLATES

Chef Pierre Gagnaire has relocated his more casual Left Bank and seafood focused bistro to a new, bigger site just around the corner, where Argentinian born architect Marcelo Joulia has imposed an elegant and masculine Art Deco atmosphere on the bar and suite of dining rooms. The menu remains a showcase of technique and creativity: the seafood platter is an astonishing experiment in form, flavour and texture.

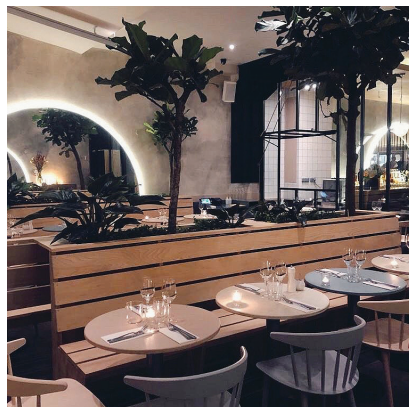

16 rue de Saint-Simon, 7th | 01 45 44 73 73 | Noon-2.30pm (3pm Sat), 7-11pm. Closed Sun, Mon | www.pierre-gagnaire.com/restaurants/gaya/

Ground Control des Champs

COFFEE / MODERN FRENCH / POP UP / TAKE AWAY

This newest incarnation of the nomadic pop-up food and culture hub is not located in a former railway depot but a soon-to-be-renovated mall off the Champs-Élysées; here chef Stéphane Jégo (L'Ami Jean) tempts Parisians back to the “world's most beautiful avenue” with gourmet street food prepared with the finest French produce, not to mention Jégo's famous terrine. There's also a coffee shop, gallery space and a cute shop! 26 avenue des Champs-Élysées, 75008 | 9.30am-midnight. Closed Sun | www.groundcontroldeschamps.com

Malro

COCKTAILS / ITALIAN / PIZZA / TAKE AWAY

This sprawling Upper Marais address modernises the brasserie with a décor evoking free and easy West Coast reveries and a sophisticated Mediterranean menu by Italian chef Denny Imbroisi that takes in the perfect Neapolitan pizza, rigatoni cacio e pepe or a new take on the Greek salad. Or you can just sip a great cocktail in the winter garden.

7 rue Froissart, 75011 | 01 42 77 38 47 | Noon-2.30pm (3pm Sat); 7-10.30pm (11pm Sat); Sun noon-4pm | www.restaurantmalro.fr

Beefbar

BAR / COCKTAILS / LATE / MODERN EURO / STEAK

After relaunching Argentinian steak mecca Anahi, the millionaire beef importer Riccardo Giraudi expands his Beefbar concept to Paris after Monaco or Dubai. The glamorous spot serves premium cuts of Black Angus, Wagyu or Kobe beef etc, on a pimped-up street food menu (kebab or beef bacon cheeseburger, truffled fries...) to a jetsetter crowd inside an extraordinary Art Nouveau dining room.

5 rue Marbeuf, 8th | 01 44 31 40 00 | Noon-2.30pm, 7.30-11pm (midnight Fri, Sat) | paris.beefbar.com

Shopping

Apple Store Champs Élysées

Nine years after inaugurating its first Paris store, Apple replaces the Carrousel du Louvre space with this grand new Champs Élysées flagship. Historic and modern architecture is juxtaposed within a quintessentially 19th-century apartment, while the tree filled inner courtyard plays host to free Today at Apple creative sessions. There's also an immersive "Experience Room" dedicated to the HomePod, and the complete Hermès Apple Watch line gets its own space too.

114 avenue des Champs-Élysées, 75008 | www.apple.com

Chanel 19 rue Cambon

For Chanel's new Paris flagship, architect Peter Marino has knitted together 3 buildings, including a former 17th-century convent, into a 5-floor mega store that wraps around the corners of Cambon and Duphot and extends a short block along Rue Saint-Honoré. Fashion and accessories are presented throughout a suite of rooms recalling Coco Chanel's legendary 31 rue Cambon apartment, and decorated with objets d'art such as the laquered Chinese screens she favoured.

19 rue Cambon, 75001 | www.chanel.com

Make My Lemonade

This bright bricks and mortar concept store on the Canal Saint-Martin develops Lisa Gachet's successful DIY fashion blog – When life gives you lemons, make lemonade! – into a colourful and fun flagship where you can shop the look, sign up for a workshop to learn how to make one of their designs with fabric you bought on site, meet girlfriends for lunch in the café, or pick up a fresh bouquet to go. The good vibes and girl power come for free!

61 quai de Valmy, 75010 | www.makemylemonade.com

Azzedine Alaïa Bookshop & Café

Since Alaïa's passing over a year ago, the historic Marais compound where the couturier lived and worked continues to expand and develop. Opening on 21 Jan is the public gallery's third exhibition Azzedine Alaïa Collector, dedicated to Alaïa's lifetime passion, collecting. A parallel display Adrian & Alaïa presents Alaïa's extensive collection of designer Gilbert Adrian's suits. And joining the gallery is this new arts bookshop stocked with titles by or about Alaïa's heroes, friends and peers, from Jean Prouvé to Carla Sozzani or Grace Jones. The café – an extension to his famous, bustling kitchen – will be opening any day now too!

18 rue de la Verrerie, 75004 | 11am-7pm daily | www.maison-alaia.com

What's On

Grayson Perry

LA MONNAIE

The Turner Prize winning London artist brings his distinctive voice to the Monnaie de Paris for "Vanity, Identity, Sexuality", his first major solo show in France. The cross-dressing Perry explores themes of gender and identity, class and taste using traditional crafts of pottery and tapestry, as well as the spectacular wardrobe of his transvestite alter ego Claire.

Until 3 Feb | 11 quai de Conti, 75006 | www.monnaieparis.fr

Michael Jackson

GRAND PALAIS

Since Andy Warhol first used his image in 1982, Jackson has become the most depicted cultural figure in visual art, by an extraordinary array of leading contemporary artists. Produced with the co-operation of the Michael Jackson Estate, this exhibition brings together the works of over 40 of these artists, from David LaChapelle to Candice Breitz or Isa Genzken.

Until 14 Feb | 3 avenue du Général Eisenhower, 75008 | www.grandpalais.fr

Martine Franck

FONDATION HENRI CARTIER-BRESSON

Fifteen years after opening in Montparnasse, the Henri Cartier-Bresson Foundation joins the dense cultural network in the Marais with this new space: double in size and including a research centre & bookshop. The inaugural exhibition presents the work of Cartier-Bresson's wife, a curious, socially conscious photographer of 'fleeting, subjective impressions'.

Until 10 Feb | 79 rue des Archives, 75003 | www.henricartierbresson.org